

ACW is approved to BS EN ISO 9001:2008. This we regard as a minimum standard. We employ continuous improvement techniques across all activities. Our Quality Policy is as follows:

ACW Technology Ltd provides an electronics manufacturing service that delivers products on time, to the defined specification and agreed quality level whilst minimising cost and risk to our Customers and ourselves.

- We monitor the progress of our ability to achieve our targets from the reported Key Performance Indicators.

- We set realistic targets for the Key Performance Indicators to drive continuous improvement of our business performance to our customers.

- Each member of staff is responsible for the quality of the service we supply therefore we work with our staff to develop their skills as necessary to achieve this policy.

The Company operates a quality system that meets the requirements of our customers and is in accordance with ISO9001 and AS9100.

General Electronics Services has been approved to ISO 9001:2015 standards. We at General Electronics Service regard this as a minimum standard.

Our Quality Policy is as follows:

General Electronics Services provides an electronics manufacturing service that delivers products on time, to the defined specification and agreed quality level whilst minimising cost and risk to our customers and ourselves.

- We monitor the progress of our ability to achieve our targets from the reported Key Performance Indicators.

- We set realistic targets for the Key Performance Indicators to drive continuous improvement of our business performance to our customers.

- Each member of staff is responsible for the quality of the service we supply therefore we work with our staff to develop their skills as necessary to achieve this policy.

The Company operates a quality system that meets the requirements of our customers and is in accordance with ISO9001.